Note Adobe and Photoshop have a two-tier pricing structure that is not cheap. The three Photoshop Essentials editions cost $399.95, $429.95, and $499.95, respectively. Additional versions such as the Retouch Pro, Complete Edit, and Extended Edit editions cost $399.95, $429.95, and $499.95, respectively. Because the type of image you want to create is the kind you can easily create yourself, Photoshop can be an appealing entry into Photoshop for beginners who are interested in imaging.

Remember, though, that Photoshop is a design program that will teach you about image composition, resolution, and other elements of graphics. To get the most out of Photoshop, take classes at a local university, a community college, or a local art studio. # Chapter 3. Exploring Photoshop's Drawing Tools

Whether you want to create a logo, create a catchy photograph, or even get started on a cutting-edge computer game, _drawing_ is the first step toward getting there. Today's technology has made drawing with computers a breeze, whether it's by using a mouse, tablet, or a drawing tool such as Adobe Photoshop. In this chapter, you get to see these tools at work, and learn how to draw using the following drawing tools: * The Pencil Tool * The Brush Tool * The Eraser * The Shape Tools * The Move Tool *

The Selection Tools * The Select and Modify Tools # Understanding the Interface If you're a true Photoshop rookie, you may need to do a bit of research to understand what you're seeing on the screen. _Photoshop_ can seem a bit overwhelming to beginners because it offers so many features. If you're like most people, you don't have time to learn how to use every tool, so you can spend some time getting familiar with the interface. In this section, we introduce the basics of the Adobe Photoshop interface. You have seen some of the most commonly used tools, such as the Brush tool in the next section. To switch from one tool to another on the same toolbox, just

Adobe Photoshop is a software program made by Adobe, Inc. for macOS and Windows. It is part of the Adobe Creative Suite program. Photoshop is a large-scale, collaborative desktop application used for digital imaging. Photoshop is one of the most popular digital imaging applications, and is used for image editing, page layout, photo retouching, video editing, photo compositing and design. Photoshop is compatible with macOS, macOS Server, macOS Media Server, and macOS Catalina. Best features of Photoshop Elements 12 In this Photoshop elements 12 review, we will show you the best features of Photoshop Elements 12. 1. RAW Processor The first feature which is supported in Photoshop elements 12 is RAW Processor. RAW Processor is a utility that helps to transform RAW images into JPEG or other preferred image formats using RAW images. Its utility helps users convert RAW files into JPEG, TIFF, PNG and other formats to view them in the preferred format on any computer. It works with RAW files which include Canon, Nikon, Sony and other brands of cameras. RAW images are considered as the original or raw images and for this reason, before you convert RAW images to JPEG, you may open them in a viewer and see the changes. RAW Processor can be used to convert RAW files to many formats such as JPEG, RAW, TIFF, PNG, etc. Using this tool, you can change RAW file's setting. To do that, you need to hold down the (ALT) key and highlight RAW Processor under Window > Adjustments. On the next window, you can adjust the settings like the color, brightness, contrast and saturation. 2. Dialog Plus The second feature of Photoshop Elements 12 is Dialog Plus. This is a new feature which helps users to choose images from a location or folder, apply effects to it and save the images or choose a single image to share it with the world. Dialog Plus allows users to select images from a location or folder. Users can select a folder with images in it and use those files or select an image from the folder. You can apply effects to the images which are selected from the folder. To apply effects, you need to use the built-in Photoshop elements 12, using the shortcut key (Cmd + E). You can easily use Dialog Plus. 3. Duplicate This feature allows users to copy and paste an image. This function is built into the program, and you can use 05a79cecff

Jeff Bezos has sold his stake in oil giant Saudi Aramco in the latest example of the tech industry's growing ties to business and political leaders from emerging markets. Jeff Bezos has sold his stake in oil giant Saudi Aramco in the latest example of the tech industry's growing ties to business and political leaders from emerging markets. The American business magnate, 57, sold $1.8 billion (£1.2bn) worth of shares in the Saudi Arabian state oil company, days after the Government announced it would sell $20 billion of shares in UK-based Ineos, which makes chemicals and plastic products. Mr Bezos has previously owned a 0.1 per cent stake in the Saudi Arabian government-backed investment firm Aramco, as well as a stake in Amazon. The chief executive of Amazon, which in a statement said his interest in the company was "long", did not invest in the $2 trillion IPOs he held in the past year. The tech executive's decision to sell his shares comes amid mounting concern over whether the relationship between tech firms and Saudi Arabia – and the wider Middle East – are too close and may even extend to criminal collusion. In August, a lawyer representing the FBI told a congressional committee that the US government has evidence showing Saudi Arabia has funded extremist organisations, in particular Isis, which has been linked to the 9/11 attacks. The committee is investigating allegations of collusion between Russia and Mr Trump's campaign team over the alleged Russian interference in the 2016 US election. The sale of shares in Aramco is widely expected to increase the price of Saudi Aramco's shares and could help the price to more than double to $1,500 (£1,180), more than double the current $700 level. Aramco will retain a 55 per cent shareholding after the initial public offering, with the remaining 45 per cent going to public investors. Aramco's shares opened for bidding on the Saudi stock exchange at 10am local time on Sunday with the first lot of shares priced at 30.36 riyals (£8.09).

the process as the director and cinematographer. And now it's getting smarter. Reach + Zoom, a software platform designed to help project managers and users in the film, broadcast, and post-production industries automate workflow processes, streamline organizational structures and optimize operations, is making the leap from film to the broadcast industry with an exclusive new partnership with Adobe Systems Inc. (Nasdaq: ADBE). In addition, Pat Gilman, NAB President and CEO, declared the agreement a major coup for the NAB Show. Reach + Zoom and Adobe's Live Action app for broadcast partner Adobe Media Collaborations, will partner to help facilitate faster collaboration between film producers and broadcast producers by combining the power of digital video and AI. The solution has the potential to not only simplify, but revolutionize workflow. "This is a dream come true," said Pat Gilman, NAB President and CEO. "When we first agreed to engage with Reach + Zoom, it was in the context of making great projects more affordable and efficient. Now the world of live production and post-production is going to be all about the collaborative process." Reach + Zoom is a cloud-based collaboration platform that connects any team on any device. From studios to networks, production companies to VFX companies, nearly any team can use this innovative platform to reduce the effort and optimize the cost of production. Live Action, which debuted on March 25, 2016, is the first app to make Reach + Zoom the perfect solution for feature film production. The service is available on iPhone, Android and Mac computers, as well as the iPad. In addition, the main app is coming soon to Windows 10. This exclusive partnership brings much-needed efficiency and support for live production to the new app. "The real power of Reach + Zoom and Adobe's Live Action app is that they can connect any team," said Stephane Reverdy, Senior Director of Live Production at Adobe. "Because of the proprietary nature of our Live Action app, we are able to leverage all the power and features of Reach + Zoom and take collaboration to a whole new level. This is truly an exciting development for the broadcast community." "Film and broadcast professionals are going to have to become much more
