Snow, 2013, How to avoid a .Q: A question about Modern Axiomatic Set Theory I'm reading the following book, and I've just reached the beginning of Chapter 11: Now I'm trying to prove two theorems of ZFC (Alexandrov and König), but I've no idea how to work with the notation in  $M A S T$  and what the appropriate way of proving them would be. Could anyone help me with this? A: I'm going to assume that you are referring to Mac Lane's axiomatization of set theory in the second edition of his book (or else that you are referring to a course that used that edition). The language of first-order set theory is just the language of set theory together with a binary predicate symbol  $\in$ . König's and Alexandrov's theorems appear in Chapter 8 ("Axiom of Choice") and in Chapter 9 ("Axiom of the Well-ordering Property of  $\mathbb{R}$ "), respectively, of Mac Lane's book. The proof of both theorems is found in Chapter 11 ("

Field of the Invention This invention relates to a system and process for connecting optical fiber cables to the multiple connectors which are mounted on a common end panel or backplane. In particular, the invention relates to a system and process for making four high speed optical connections by connecting four optical fiber cables to four optical connectors on the backplane. The invention is particularly suited for making the high speed connection of fiber optic plugs or connectors to fiber optic cable. 2. Description of the Prior Art In the telecommunications industry, fiber optic plugs are widely used for making optical connections between fiber optic cables and optical fiber circuits. Generally, there are two types of fiber optic plugs, so-called "Makor" plugs (from Makor Industries, Inc., which is a trademark of the assignee herein) and "field replaceable connectors" (FRCs) which are not physically mounted to a panel or backplane. As
